Being Honest

with Ian Bradley and Peter Francis

Tuesday, 18th October - Thursday, 20th October

An 'honest' and 'liberal' reappraisal of some of the central tenets of the Christian faith.

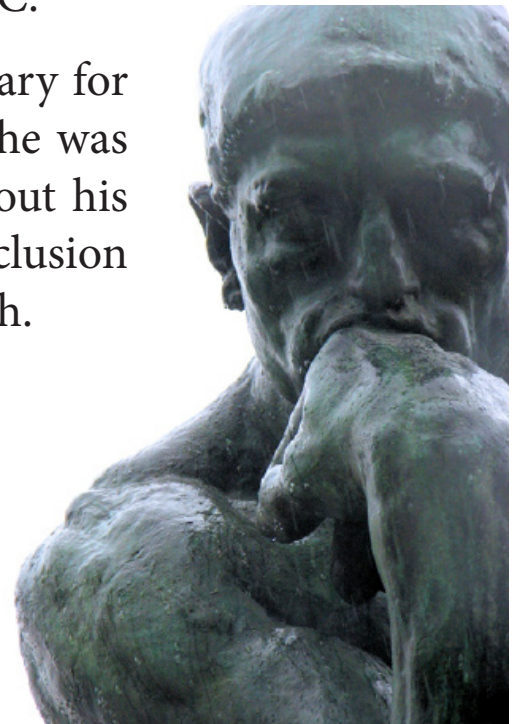

Ian Bradley is the successful author of over 35 books and is a well-known broadcaster, journalist and lecturer. He is Principal of St Mary's College, University of St Andrews. He writes regularly for The Times and the Guardian and often appears on the BBC.

Peter Francis has been Warden of Gladstone's Library for over 19 years and prior to his time at the Library he was Provost of St Mary's Cathedral, Glasgow. Throughout his ministry he has been concerned with matters of inclusion and the promotion of a liberal and rational faith.
