

GLADSTONE'S
LIBRARY

JOURNALS & PERIODICALS

A COLLECTION GUIDE

Current (July 2019)

ABOUT THE COLLECTION

Gladstone's Library holds 964 journal and periodical titles. The first periodicals were given to the library by our Founder, William Ewart Gladstone (1809-1898), through donation and bequest. Subscriptions for many titles on behalf of the library began in the 1890s and 1900s, such as the Journal of Theological Studies. As such, the library has complete or near-complete early runs of many leading journals of the era. We continue to subscribe to contemporary titles, principally in theology, such as the Anglican Theological Review, as well as literary and current affairs titles such as the London Review of Books.

Collection Strengths

The majority of our journal and periodical holdings are in our principal subjects of history (particularly of the nineteenth century), literature, and theology and religious studies. Many of our titles were also printed in the nineteenth century, and were amongst the most notable journals of the age, such as the Edinburgh Review, Macmillan's Magazine, and the Strand Magazine.

USING THE JOURNALS AND PERIODICALS

Back issues of our journal and periodical holdings are held in the Annex. Latest issues of current subscriptions are held on the journals cabinet in the Theology Room. Titles shelved in the 'Annex Oversize' collection are part of larger distinct collections such as the Moorman Franciscan Collection or the Richard L. Hills History of Technology Collection. Please see the specific Collection Guides (also available online) for further information.

Titles in Restricted Areas

Some titles are currently held at the time of writing (Summer 2019) at our off-site store, Stephen Gladstone Hall. Titles held here are indicated on the list. There are also a small number of periodical titles printed before 1800 held in Closed Access.

All titles in restricted areas can be requested in person or in advance by registered Readers or Residents only. For Reading Room opening times, please see our website.

If you would like further information on our journals and periodicals collection, or would like to reserve or request a title, please contact us via library@gladlib.org
